SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The White House Conference on Children and Youth is a decennial conference sponsored by the U.S. government. The first conference was held in Washington, DC in 1909. Subsequent conferences were in 1919, 1930, 1940, 1950, 1960 and 1970. This collection contains the records of the 1960 conference, along with the files of various support groups and material on earlier conferences which was inherited by the staff of the 1960 conference. The records were maintained by the National Committee on Children and Youth, a successor organization of the 1960 conference, until 1972 when they were turned over to the National Archives. The Archives staff worked out an arrangement scheme for the records and then transferred them to the Eisenhower Library in 1985 where final processing was completed.

The collection is divided into nine series, preserving the arrangement scheme developed by the National Archives. The first series contains a set of publications issued by the 1930 and 1940 conferences. The official records of these and earlier conferences have not been located and may no longer exist. Historians may find references to the work of the conferences in the papers of the presidents who were in office at the time the conferences were held. Information may also be in the records of the Children's Bureau (Record Group 102) at the National Archives.

The second series contains records of the 1950 conference. These are divided into two subseries: a State File and a Subject File. The Subject File contains the administrative records of the conference itself while the State File contains material on the work of each state in support of the conference. Each state set up a special committee to coordinate state participation in the conference. These state committees remained in existence after the conference and later provided support for the 1960 conference.

The third series contains the general records of the 1960 conference. These are divided into six subseries. The Issuances Subseries contains an archival set of all official documents issued by the conference. The Chronological Correspondence Subseries contains carbon copies of letters and memoranda written by the conference staff. The subseries on conference background and planning concerns preparations for the conference. The State Activities Subseries contains reference material on children and youth activities in selected states. The Conference Forums and Theme Assemblies Subseries contains material on the various topics studied by the conference.

The largest subseries is the file on State Committees. This contains information on the work of the state committees in support of the conference. It also has information on the work of the state committees after the end of the conference in support of the work of the National Committee for Children and Youth.

The fourth series contains the records of the President's National Committee for the Golden Anniversary White House Conference on Children and Youth. This was a committee established by President Eisenhower in 1958 to make arrangements for the 1960 conference.

The fifth series contains material collected by the Council of National Organizations. This was a support group consisting of almost 600 private organizations which dealt with children and youth matters. It was organized about 1958 to assist with the work of the conference. The material consists primarily of reports and publications issued by the individual organizations and contains no material on the actual organization or operation of the Council. Files on Council activities can be found in other series of the collection, particularly Series 4 and 7.

The sixth series contains files from the office of Isabella J. Jones, the Associate Director of the conference. This material is primarily correspondence and publications Mrs. Jones collected. Some of the material is duplicated in other series of the collection. The series also contains a Chron File of her outgoing correspondence.

The seventh series contains the records of the Studies Division. This was responsible for collecting and analyzing information on subjects of interest to the conference. The material is arranged in seven subseries. The first contains the administrative records of the Division. The remaining six contain reference material collected by the Division, arranged by point of origin. There are subseries for material from national organizations, U.S. government agencies, private authors and universities, and state and local governments.

The eighth series contains the records of the Interpretation Division. This was responsible for publicizing the work of the conference. The series includes the administrative files of the Division, copies of press releases and speeches prepared by the conference staff and participants, and copies of magazines which contained articles on the conference.

The ninth series contains the records of the National Committee for Children and Youth. This was set up at the end of the 1960 conference to follow up on its work. The material is divided into three subseries. These include the administrative files of the Committee, files on a conference held in 1966 to study the results of the 1960 conference, and research files used to compile a report in 1968 on the progress of children and youth programs since the 1960 conference.
